EDGY UNDERCUT

Undercutting—shaving the bottom half of your hair (a technique that was huge in the '80s)—is back. Style secret. The best part of getting buzzed is the versatility. Wear it down for a more conservative vibe, or rock this punked-out pony. Want even more edge? Go for the micro bangs.

"These kids don't get the opportunity to let go, especially if they are abused or neglected." —Selita

OPPOSITE: IRINA LAZAREANU, 24
Hometown: Montreal
Charity she supports: Sam and Ruby Rose Foundation, samandrubby.com
Irina's model booker in Paris, Samantha, and her baby daughter, Ruby Rose, were both lost in Thailand during the 2004 Indian Ocean tsunami. "The charity was set up as a lasting tribute to Sam and Ruby, to help the children of the devastated area by building schools and promoting education," Irina says. "I help out doing paperwork, trying to raise money and donating on my own. It's terrible what happened, but we can't turn our backs and forget."

HERE: SELITA EBANKS, 22
Hometown: Grand Cayman, Cayman Islands
Charity she supports: Free Arts for Abused Children, freearts.org
Volunteers like Selita bring art programs and other activities to at-risk children, giving them a chance to express themselves in a positive way. "These kids don't get the opportunity to let go, especially if they are abused or neglected," Selita says. "For me, having a direct impact on young lives is important. I sing along with the kids, 'This Little Light of Mine.' I tell them to sing it when they're sad and alone, and to think of me making a smile face and making them laugh."

"Imagine trying to get a job without an address or any recommendations. We want to give the homeless a place to call home." —Heather

OPPOSITE: HEATHER MARKS, 18
Hometown: Calgary, Alberta
Charity she supports: Calgary Homeless Foundation, calgaryhomeless.com
The foundation's goal is to reduce homelessness in Calgary, where it is currently at a record high. "Helping out in the community has always been important in my family, whether it's donating clothes or serving the homeless dinner," Heather says. "It's really hard for some people to get back on their feet, imagine trying to get a job without an address or any recommendations. We want to give them a place to call home."

Hometown: Zwolle, Holland
Charities she supports: WHale and Dolphin Conservation Society, whale.org, and Orca Network, orca-network.org
Ann Marie is deeply dedicated to charities that work to protect these animals and their fragile environments. "When I was discovered as a model at age 14, I thought I could make a little money and donate it to animal protection organizations," she says. "Sometimes I want to have my own foundation. One aspect that's important to me is speaking out against keeping whales and dolphins in captivity. People don't realize how much the animals suffer, because the entertainment parks don't want you to know."
