ALL THE BETTER TO SEE YOU WITH

Whether you prefer pretty and natural or something bolder (different strokes for different folks, as they say), these simple tools and tips will transform your lashes—and your entire look—in a blink.

DOUBLE VISION

Two out-of-sight looks made with mascara—and little else.

For the elegant effect on the far left, start by curling your natural lashes and applying one coat of black mascara. Then stick a strip of false lashes as close to the lash line as possible. (You can trim them to a less spidery length.) To help the false lashes blend seamlessly with your natural ones, gently squeeze both together with a lash curler a second time. Hide any traces of glue with a thin line of black liquid liner, then brush on another coat of mascara. TO BUY: Lashies, $4, lashies.com.

Yes Saint Laurent Mascara Volume Effet Cils à Baby Doll, $30, yslbeauty.com.

Glitter can look electric or ethereal, depending on how you apply it. It took several coats of gold-flecked mascara on the upper and lower lashes to achieve the dramatic sparkle shown above, but a touch swept onto the tips of black-mascara-clad lashes gives a subtle twinkle to eyes. TO BUY: Meet Candy Lash Tinsel Glitter Mascara in Gold Drip, $4, Walmart.

TRY ON TURQUOISE

You can weigh the options—black, brown, black-brown, very black—until you're blue in the face. Or why not go for a slightly wild, colorful mascara? It will brighten eyes like shadow does, but without the befuddling conundrum. Blue, especially, flatter all eye colors. (You'll find navy shades more office friendly if this particular peacock doesn't fly.) To get uniform, saturated coverage, apply several coats. Finish with a similarly toned pencil liner applied at the base of the lashes and keep your lids neutral.

TO BUY: La Vie en Rose de Chanel mascara in blue, $30, chanel.com. Smashbox Unibrow Eye Liner in Peacock, $19, smashbox.com. Blincies Perfect Rouge in Pink Merlot $20, blincies.com.

THE SHOW-STOPPER

The perfect high-volume pouf, seductive cat-eye and stop-them-in-their-tracks dress. When you enter a room with this subtle yet strong look, it's no surprise all eyes are on you.
