

Art Department

When I started traveling internationally in 2006, everyone asked to see photos. I'd bring a few and everyone would be able to tell me how and why I had photographed them. I couldn't bring myself to log around an expensive camera. "Facebook and other" photo-sharing sites didn't exist then, and I had no way to share my photos. All that came with me was a digital camera that had a screen and a lens. I had a camera that was everything I needed, and the only thing I had to do was to take it with me. I had a camera that was everything I needed, and the only thing I had to do was to take it with me.

Kat Borchart

www.art-dept.com

Art Department

Kat Borchart

www.art-dept.com

Art Department

Kat Borchart

www.art-dept.com