DOWN, DOWN, DOWN

The contributions of the humble goose to the sustained warming of mankind cannot be overstated. We owe the goose, huge, as each cluster of its down contains dozens of filaments that trap warm air and keep body heat in and cold out. It is not enough to stuff a shell with feathers, since everything would simply settle along the jacket's bottom. Instead, we have the horizontal channels of stitching across the jacket (or, less common, the square pockets created by vertical and horizontal stitching) that organize the down and keep it in place.

BE SMART ABOUT YOUR LAYERS

We humans are capable of tremendous things. Space travel. Subatomic physics. Twitter. But we still, still cannot predict the weather with certainty, and when heading out in the cold, you've gotta keep all your options open. You've gotta layer. With milder temperatures, you can go simple—a cotton T-shirt underneath a cashmere sweater underneath a vest—but when the stakes are positively (or negatively) subzero, you want to start with silk or cotton as your base (the better to wick moisture away from the body) before adding three or four wool pieces. Finish off with a down-filled parka and you're ready for whatever may, or may not, come your way.

SHEARLING: NO ARGUMENT

It's hard to argue with the inimitable softness and reliable warmth you can find only in the hide of a one-year-old sheep. That age isn't arbitrary. As sheep get older, their wool tends to get coarser and their skin tends to get banged up, meaning the best and softest wool of a sheep's life (and the most pristine hides) comes in the first year. The result is outerwear that can skew formal (knee length, double-breasted) or casual (streamlined, zip-up) and last you for many long winters to come.

JUSTIN BIEBER

100 MILLION YOUTUBE VIEWS

Justin Bieber shows up to the shoot with a bright-red lipstick kiss on his left cheek. "Rihanna gave that to me," he announces unprompted, flashing a million dollar grin. At 15-years-old, he is having the time of his life.

Less than two years ago he was just a kid, sitting at home in Ontario, Canada, posting videos of himself singing on YouTube. "I never knew it was gonna be a big thing," he laughs. "I started posting, and then like a month and a half later, a lot, like tons, of viewers were coming in."

Soon he had a manager. Then he was being flown to Atlanta where Usher signed him to Island. Sure, he doesn't get to see his friends as much as he might like, but Bieber is the type of kid who, when he's hanging out with Taylor Swift, Diddy, and Justin Timberlake, doesn't suffer from too much homesickness.

Over the last year, he's spent a lot of time in Atlanta working with his team on his first two albums, the second of which comes out in March. There wasn't much he needed to be taught musically (his old pre-celebrity videos are still on YouTube, and he was just as good then as he is now), but he has picked up something of a Hotlanta edge. "I'm just a kid so I can rock whatever," he says in an accent more Southern than Canadian. "In the last year I think I've developed my slye a little, as I've built up my swagger."

"SUGAR" SHANE MOSLEY
New York
by Bjorn Iooss

A 39 anni, il pugile californiano è considerato un fenomeno di longevità. A dieci anni fu soprannominato "Sugar" perché sferrava colpi così veloci da ricordare Sugar Ray Leonard. È professionista dal 1993 e nella sua lunga carriera è stato cinque volte campione mondiale in tre categorie, ma con numerosi alti e bassi. Ha ancora voglia di misurarsi ai massimi livelli. «Da anni la gente cerca di mettere un limite alla mia carriera», osserva. «So di non avere davanti un orizzonte lungo, ma voglio sfruttarlo per combattere ancora contro i migliori», aggiunge con un lampo di orgoglio negli occhi chiari. Lo sguardo dolce mal si accorda con la sua ferocia sul ring: «Ma la rabbia non c'entra, è la voglia di vincere a non avermi mai fatto andare knockout. Devo vincere anche quando gioco con i miei figli», osserva il padre di quattro marmocchi, il più grande dei quali, Shane Jr., sta seguendo le sue orme sul ring. Mosley è fiero dei progressi del primogenito, anche perché questo gli dà una scusa per immaginare di restare coinvolto nel mondo della boxe dopo il ritiro. BENJAMIN WALKER, 28

ACTOR

There are no jazz hands in the musical Bloody Bloody Andrew Jackson. There are fistfights, and slashing guitar riffs, and a portrait of our seventh president as a poor-addled, fist-bumping alpha bro, but there are none of the jazz hands that can make musical theater so embarrassing for everyone involved. Plus, there's Benjamin Walker, the actor who's been singing and brawling as Jackson since the show's workshopping days in 2007. He passed on a plum role in the next X-Men movie to debut the character on Broadway this fall, and it's really just as well. He's now got eight chances a week to show just how much hell one actor can raise.

When it comes to the bow tie, you have options. It can be small and tight, as shown here... BEST &
BRIGHTEST

DEREK CIANFRANCE. 36
WRITER, DIRECTOR

It took twelve years, sixty-something drafts, and 1,224 sketched-out storyboards for this writer-director to get his second film, Blue Valentine, off the ground and into the run-down art-house theater near you. As festivalgoers across the country have learned since it premiered at Sundance earlier this year, this quiet drama about a man (Ryan Gosling) and woman (Michelle Williams) who fall in love and fall apart is the most authentic depiction of a shitty marriage in recent memory. All Cianfrance's waiting, and his knack for capturing and conveying the sad details of life as it slowly comes undone, is finally paying off.

Throw a lightweight patterned scarf around your neck and then forget all about it. A male model is captured in a dynamic, low-to-the-ground pose on a lush green grass field. He is wearing a vibrant green jacket over a neon yellow-green t-shirt, dark shorts with white stripes, and white socks with green stripes. His arms are extended outwards, and his body is angled towards the right. A sharp shadow of the model is cast onto the grass to his left, indicating bright, high-angle sunlight. The overall aesthetic is clean and athletic.

ALTUZARRA

"A lot of it came from sport," explains Joseph Altuzarra, holding a bonded leather top inspired by hockey uniforms from his spring collection. "It started with the idea of how to take the functionality of fall into spring." The 27-year-old, Paris-born designer (photographed here with, from left, Claire Courtin-Clarins, Lauren Santo Domingo, and cousin Lily Kwong) understands the tastes of the modern metropolitan woman whose 24-hour-racecourse lifestyle demands a wardrobe that keeps pace. His signature: "A mix of something very sexy and something very utilitarian as well."

A.A. ANTONIO AZZUOLO

"The basic premise is building a man's wardrobe," explains Montreal-bred menswear designer Antonio Azzuolo. Azzuolo, 41 (photographed with actor Ben Barnes), was at a sewing machine by age six (his mother was a seamstress; his father, a tailor's apprentice) and went on to Hermès, Kenzo, and, most recently, Ralph Lauren as menswear design director before launching his own line, in 2008, of carefully crafted pieces that cater to the downtown dandy. The result is a harmonious union of Upper and Lower East Side style—classic tailoring fused with off-kilter touches like slightly cropped jackets and rounded shirt collars. "There's a good balance in my collections between my highly tailored pieces and this kind of more forward, edgy, casual aspect," he says. "So there's a poetic side and a creative side."

CARLOS CAMPOS

Carlos Campos navigates deftly around his recently opened microboutique on the Lower East Side, pulling out pima-cotton polo shirts in hand-dyed deep-sea blues. "We play a lot with color because we like basics," says the 38-year-old menswear designer (L.17, photographed here with musician Theophilus London), who hails from Honduras and hopes to open ten stores—mostly in South America—within the next five years. "The ideal customer is a guy like me, who really appreciates the details; I cannot design something if I'm not thinking about how it's going to be constructed." Campos creates all of his patterns and colors himself, which determines both his bottom line and his schedule: "I think that's the reason why I'm still in business; I save a lot of money making everything myself! I have this little calendar that says, 'Today I have to do two patterns, three patterns.' When it's something fun, I do it on Saturday or Sunday!" In this story: Production design by Nick Des Jardins at Mary Howard Studio.

All clothing by Carlos Campos. Hair, Teddy Chaves for Otto Sobott; grooming, Rebecca Plymate for L'Oréal Paris. Details, see in This Issue.

JOHN MAYER & HIS DAD

As they celebrate their birthdays, the Mayer men talk about milestones, music and raising a star

On Oct. 16, musician John Mayer treated his father, Richard, a retired high school principal and sometime pianist, to the joint birthday bash of a lifetime (see box). Just before the party started, the pair sat down with PEOPLE'S Mark Dagostino for a father-son chat.

SO HOW DOES IT FEEL TO SHARE TWO BIG BIRTHDAYS?

RICHARD: I used to think 80 was old. Now I know it is. [They both laugh.]
