MAXIMIZE YOUR VERSATILITY

THE ASTRONAUT, the subtlest of men, give the gift of mohair to the world, is obliged to travel with all kinds of hat and sold in the days and nights in northeastern Turkey. Or South Africa. Or the other places where the species prospers. And it's that adaptability and versatility that makes mohair so valuable. Its fibers have a hard, shiny texture that is softened when blended with wool, and, when used for suits, each blend has a fine, grainy texture that's durable, resilient, and, best of all, is generally comfortable. >> This page: Five-button wool and mohair suit ($1,800); cotton shirt ($80); and silk tie ($20).
