

Art Department

Get the Look: Matt LeBlanc and Jason Biggs at the 2014 Emmy Awards

Actors Matt LeBlanc and Jason Biggs both walked the 2014 Emmy's Red Carpet last night looking dapper and sporting polished hair looks, courtesy of Oribe Haircare.

Get the Look: Matt LeBlanc

To create LeBlanc's slightly disheveled look, celebrity stylist Barbara Guillaume used Original Pomade and Superfine Hair Spray for the Outstanding Lead Actor in a Comedy Series nominee.

Barbara Guillaume

www.art-dept.com

Art Department

Barbara Guillaume Shares Her Top Four Grooming Products For Manly Men

This one's for the guys or the gals who try to help the guys! Born and raised in France, super-model-turned-celebrity-groomer Barbara Guillaume's first client was Colin Farrell. Since then, my beautiful friend has carved out a great niche for herself in Hollywood's very competitive entertainment industry. Recently, we sat down in her lush backyard to talk about her life, her glamorous work with A-list actors, her equally gorgeous son, and how she does it all. Stay tuned for the inspiring and engaging on-camera interview coming up on the blog soon. From grooming Ryan Reynolds to Sir Ben Kingsley, Barbara makes wearing makeup look manly. Want the inside scoop on how to get the celebrity look? Check out some of Barbara's favorite products to boost your appearance, without looking like you had to work for it!

Barbara Guillaume

www.art-dept.com

Art Department

1. Perfect Matt

"Every man could use an anti-shine to matte their face. My favorite product is called Perfect Matt. It's a clear product and soft to the touch. When you put it on your skin, it automatically turns matte. A man can use this, and it looks completely natural like he's not wearing any makeup."

2. Tween Time Roux Beauty

"If you have white hairs in your beard, your eyebrows, or just your hair, you can use this. They are colored sticks that come in any hair color. Wet the sticks, take a brush, and mix it to get your natural color. Then take the brush and go through your beard. You can rub it in as well, but make sure that it doesn't get on the skin. If you have grey hairs, and you don't like it, you put this on and feel better about going out into the world."

Barbara Guillaume

Art Department

3. Toppik

"This is magic. If I would forget this when I go to work, I wouldn't know what to do. It's very fine hair fiber that covers the scalp. It comes in every hair color. It's so easy to do it on your own."

4. Control Paste by Aveda

"I like Aveda products. They have something called Control Paste. It's easy to use, easy to control, and light. I like using Aveda products because everything is pretty much natural. Control Paste is very soft. Always work the product in your hands first. Then put it in the hair. Men have a tendency to have more volume on the sides, so always put a little more product on the sides to tame it. And then on the top, do whatever you like, create volume, put it down, or texture it."

That's all there is to it, fellas! If you have any tips or questions, give us a shout in the comment section below, and stay tuned for more from this gorgeous celebrity groomer.

Barbara Guillaume

www.art-dept.com

Art Department

Grooming

GQ's Comprehensive Guide to Body Grooming

How to clip, shave, and tweeze every inch of your body, from the chest to (yup) way, way down under

BY PHILLIP PICARDI

June 10, 2013

For most men, body grooming involves walking a delicate line between looking like a caveman on the beach, or a member of One Direction. Then there are the more...nitty-gritty aspects of grooming, involving places where the sun don't shine, and even some you've probably never considered before. To help strike that balance, we consulted top grooming experts on how to prepare your body for the summer. That said, body hair is a matter of preference—both yours and your partner's. In other words, don't buzz without asking her how she likes it first.

The Chest

"I rarely have completely shaven clients these days," says Barbara Guillaume, groomer to stars like James Franco and Colin Farrell. "For the past couple of years, it's easily 70% of the time that you'll see actors with facial and body hair."

In other words, what we're going for isn't the Abercrombie catalogue. "You need a good pair of clippers," Guillaume says. "Trim your chest, going in the direction of the grain, then make sure to go all the way down. No happy trail necessary. "Do it dry," insists Guillaume. "And hydrate afterwards with a body lotion to prevent redness."

You also want to consider how much winter weight you're carrying before taking it all off: "The less hair, the more you see the whole body. It's okay to leave a little bit of hair just in case."

While the aforementioned rules are all great, don't forget: Balance is key. If you're rocking a bit of scruff this summer, you don't want to have a completely buzzed chest. "If it's just a little bit of growth on the face, it's okay to have barely anything on the chest. If you have a beard, maybe go a bit longer."

Barbara Guillaume

www.art-dept.com