The image shows the cover of GQ magazine, January 2015 issue. The cover features a photograph of actor Christian Bale, who has long hair and a beard, wearing a dark, button-down shirt. He is leaning forward on a dark surface. The magazine title 'GQ' is prominently displayed in large, gold letters at the top left. The text 'DEUTSCHLAND' is written in small letters inside the 'Q'. The tagline 'LEBENSSTIL FÜR MÄNNER MIT ANSPRUCH' is at the top right. The main headline on the right reads 'FORMEL AUTOBAHN DER SCHÖNSTE McLAREN ALLER ZEITEN' with 'AUTO' in a small box above it and 'SEITE 97' below. Below that, it says 'INTERVIEW' with a red gear icon, followed by 'CHRISTIAN BALE' in large white letters and 'DIE ROLLE SEINES LEBENS: MOSES IN „EXODUS“' in smaller white letters. On the left side, under a red bar, it says 'LIVING' and 'DER PERFEKTE GASTGEBER SO WIRD SILVESTER ZUM DINNER DES JAHRES' with 'SEITE 69' below. Further down, it says 'PLUS' and '48 großartige Last Minute-Geschenke' and 'Klick! Die Zippo-Story'. At the bottom, there is a red box with 'TRENDS X MÄNNER X STYLE' and the year '2015' in very large white letters. Below the year, it says 'WAS UNS IM NEUEN JAHR BEWEGEN WIRD' with a small red graphic of dots to the left.

The Real Deal

DON CHEADLE, actor.

Twenty-five films; one Golden Globe.

Thank goodness The Golden Palace wasn't a hit. If that long-forgotten sitcom, a 1992 spin-off of The Golden Girls, had prospered, then Don Cheadle, 40, might be making a very nice living today by playing a persnickety manager of a Florida hotel week after week. And moviegoers would have missed out on seeing this chameleon as the psychotic sidekick to Denzel Washington's Easy Rawlins in Devil in a Blue Dress, and as the country-music-loving porn star with the heart of a faithful husband in Boogie Nights, and as the Cockney-accented explosives expert in Ocean's Eleven and Ocean's Twelve. Cheadle's excellent work in movie after movie—serious films and popcorn pictures alike—led to his career-making performance as Hotel Rwanda's Paul Rusesabagina, a brave Hutu married to a Tutsi in the war-torn Rwanda of 1994, when Hutus slaughtered an estimated 800,000 Tutsi in 100 days; as the genocide raged, Rusesabagina saved more than 1,200 Tutsi. Up next, Cheadle's a producer and star of Crash, a big melodrama of interwoven L.A. stories from Million Dollar Bobby screenwriter Paul Haggis. Then he'll be making his directorial debut, with his adaptation of Elmore Leonard's caper comedy Tishomingo Blues. In that one, he'll be playing Robert Taylor, one of the baddest Leonard characters ever. The author has even said he had Cheadle in mind while writing the book. How cool is that?
