SUMMER
STYLE

Weekend Getaway

Carvell Wallace

Peggy Sirota

Limelight

★ After winning every award under the sun for his role in Moonlight—and using his platform to speak up for love, tolerance, and timeless American values—Mahershala Ali has earned the right to kick back a little. So to lead off our celebration of America in all its complicated glory, we took him to Catalina Island to rejoice, at last, in the arrival of summer

COUNTRY STRONG

► If you want to borrow Kurt's timeless cowboy style, start with one big, rugged piece that you can comfortably, convincingly wear for the rest of your life—like a heavy plaid rancher's shirt, on a coat with a shearling collar, or even a suede M65 jacket that matches your horse. Any one of them will make you look at home on the range.

Despite the Great Casualization of menswear these past few years, the suit remains the bedrock of any man's wardrobe. It's what we all wear when we want to look our best. Not necessarily our fanciest or most formal—just our level best. In that spirit, we hereby offer this totally foolproof, indubitably stylish, up-to-the-minute guide to looking very GQ in a suit. And here to show you the ropes is none other than the preposterously dashing JAMES MARSDEN, star of HBO's epic new series Westworld

BE A HEAVYWEIGHT

► Fall weather calls for nubby fabrics. So if you're buying a suit right now, the first decision you're making is: tweed or corduroy? Replace your tie with a sweater and you're set for the season.

LIGHT UP ANY ROOM

With a little shine in the fabric, even the most ordinary suiting colors look a little more... brilliant. Where matte suits might be gray, shiny ones are silver. They catch the light differently, giving off a glint of Hollywood glamour. They work with ties, of course, but also with turtlenecks. With polos. With tees. And how much you shine is up to you. Go with a slightly dimmer suit (like the one on this page) when you're after versatility, or crank up the wattage (see the one at right) to make sure you're always in the spotlight.

RAMÍREZ

Los últimos meses han sido cruciales en la carrera de este venezolano, quien hoy en día es uno de los histriones latinos con mayor proyección a nivel mundial. La charla que tuvimos con él evidenció su amor por la actuación, pero también su fascinación por la filosofía, el arte y, por supuesto, la moda como discurso sociológico.
