We've only scratched the surface on understanding the JAK/STAT pathway's role in atopic dermatitis (AD)

Key cytokines, including IL-4, IL-13, IL-22, IL-31, and TSLP, contribute to this chronic, relapsing-remitting inflammatory skin disease. Many of these cytokines are also thought to contribute to itch, a symptom responsible for much of the disease burden.^{1,2}

By inhibiting the JAK/STAT pathway, it may be possible to decrease signaling of key cytokines that drive AD inflammation, itch, and skin barrier disruption.^{3,4}

Ursinostatam, JAK1/JAK2 kinase, STAT3 signal transducer and activator of transcription 3, Tyrosine Kinase, Interleukin-4

Let's explore more about the JAK/STAT pathway at scratchingtheADsurface.com

Pfizer does not currently have any JAK inhibitors approved for the treatment of AD.
