NOTO APOTHECARY

We caught up with Sundry's babe, published Make-Up Artist, and all around badass, Gloria Noto, during our most recent photo shoot at Camp Williams. Smelling like earthy Pola Sento and Sandalwood goodness and mesmerizing us with the products she had on hand, we had to get the scoop on the amazing new project she is working on, and from the samples she gave us to test, we can't wait for you to get your hands on it and test it yourselves.

...pushed me to ask myself what I wanted out of my life, what makes me happy and what matters most.

"It all started years ago with 'Roster'. I had been mixing my own scents and would often be asked what I was wearing when I walked into the room. People wanted to know how they could get one for themselves, so slowly I started making this delicious unisex scent for friends as gifts. This then sparked a full desire to know where my cosmetic ingredients were coming from, and to be more connected to my work as a makeup artist and artist as a whole. I wanted beauty products that also acted as healing medicines in addition to making you beautiful on the outside. Also, I wanted products that had multi-uses to them in order to help simplify my life. All these interests, curiosities, and slow teachings collided once I got news of my sisters declining health and a solo trip to Thailand pushed me to ask myself what I wanted out of my life, what makes me happy and what matters most. Out of this perfect storm... Noto Apothecary was born."

Multi-Benne color stains are multi-use products for your eyes cheeks and lips - which also include healing oils to nourish your skin as it gives it a natural wash of color.

Just Use your clean fingertips and dap a color wherever you'd like a bit of life - add more to get a deeper tone.

It has healing hydration that comes from raw cocoa butter and shea butter as well as caffeine crystals to help lighten and awaken your skin, therefore also acting as a gentle yet effective eye cream.

Phyton Serum - This is basically liquid gold! Roster - Essential Oil Serum - for the body and hair! A mixing scent made with hip tree oils like Pola Sento - Cedar Wood - Sandalwood - Frankincense - Black Pepper oils - this is perfect for keeping you smelling amazing and keeping the ends of your hair
