“I’M ACTUALLY REALLY GOOFY, BUT I GRAVITATE towards intense stories,” claims actress Danai Gurira. Her resume bears that out: Born in Iowa and raised in Zimbabwe, she realized her calling as a storyteller early on. Graduate studies at NYU yielded In the Company, an acclaimed off-Broadway play she created about two women diagnosed with HIV. Last year, she joined the cast of The Walking Dead as Michonne, whom she likens to female veterans she met in Liberia. “She’s an example of what women can become in dire circumstances. There’s no 911 or cops and balances, so she’s become her own army.” And most recently, she stars in Sundance favorite Mother of George.

Danai wears the Sophie Boots in Black Haircuff $178.00
