SPONGE - DABBED FLUSH

Intense clouds of pillar box red and bubblegum pink stretched beyond the models' cheeks at Kenzo and Chanel, dousing the eyes and temples in a flush of colour too. "This C-shaped blusher is enough of a statement to carry the whole face," promises Gallimore. "But it's the softly diffused finish that makes it wearable." Cream formulas move with the contour of the face, rather than mask it, but alter your application technique. Use the base of a sponge to build depth and blur edges. Stamp on the colour like a child painting.

Soft Matte Complete Concealer, $23; Matte Multiple in Cream, $25; and Larger Than Life Lip Gloss in Tiberi, $20; all Nars; Face Sponge, $2.99 for two, Superdrug; Inner Glow Cream Blush in Rapture, $20; Ritual's de Belle Fashion Top, $219; Diane Von Furstenberg at stylebop.com

FACE PAINT

FINGER-PAINTED LIPS

Your make-up brushes' days may be numbered. As the models at Molly Goddard and Giambattista Valli proved, the most charming of looks are applied with the fingers. From smudged red lips to pinched lashes, the imperfect finish adds to the magic. "Picture perfect make-up is unrealistic," says Gallimore. "The blurred edge adds personality. It's about finding beauty in what was once deemed a mistake."

Audacious Mascara in Black Moon, $21; Lip Gloss in Triple X, $20; and Velvet Matte Lip Pencil in Famous Red, $20, all Nars; High Pigment Wet & Dry Eyeshadow in Matte Poppy Red, $6.90; Kiko; Brow Power Perfector Duo, $22; IT Cosmetics Fashion; Dress, $435; Tibi

CRAYOLA COLOURS

Canary yellow flanked eyes at Sportmax, red lips anchored faces at Carolina Herrera and Crayola blue adorned eyes at Ports 1961. When it comes to colour this season, think primary shades. "It's not about a perfectly blended eyeshadow," explains Gallimore, "it's about making a mark." Scribble over the eye or use the fingertip to drag the colour across the lid. Don't fear smudged edges: the more naïve the finish, the better.

Power Fabric Foundation, $40; Giorgio Armani Velvet Eyeliner in Caracas, $18; Matte Eyeshadow in Dufremer, $19; and Charlotte Gainsbourg Lip Tint in Ephlide, $22; all Nars; Multitasker Mixing Medium, $8; NYX

Fashion: Top, $69, Jaeger
